1st December 2006

We have been using Permanon surface protection technology, and not only do our luxury Powerboats look fantastic and shiny, more importantly we have found it excellent for conserving the value of our boats. Unlike traditional products such as wax, polymers or Teflon we have found it to be effective protection against industrial fallout, bird droppings, UV and acid rain, it is also far longer lasting.

Maintaining boat surfaces is now easier and we are able to carry out repeat cleanings at least 50 % faster, a clear cost saving. We also save on needing less conventional cleaning products. Boats look newer and unlike conventional aggressive cleaning products these products are not harmful to the environment or abrasive to boat surfaces.

Yours sincerely
