To whom it may concern

I can confirm that Permanon Supershine was applied to the hull of the 100' Wally Yacht "Y3K" in the port of Ancona, Italy in the early part of 2007.

The effects of this application were immediate with respect the ease of keeping the hull clean and as far as I am aware the skipper and crew were pleased with the result.

The owner decided to change the hull colour of his yacht and a re-paint took place in Antibes during May/June of the same year.

We prepared the hull surface for painting in the normal way without any consideration to the Permanon Supershine having been applied.

We never encountered any problems with contamination throughout the entire re-paint of the yacht.
